Congress enacted Public Law 436 in 1952 to provide for an economical, efficient and effective supply management organization within the Department of Defense through the establishment of a single Cataloging System. The law further states that "a single item identification will be utilized for each item repetitively used, purchased, stocked or distributed, for all functions of supply from original purchase to final disposal." Implementation of this portion of the statutory requirement within the Department of Defense, in coordination with the General Services Administration, provided the foundation of the Federal Catalog System.

The Department of Defense assigned to the Defense Supply Agency the responsibility for management and administration of the operations of the Federal Catalog System. The operating policies and instructions contained in this manual covering the maintenance of a uniform catalog system have evolved through the joint efforts of the Military Services and the Defense Supply Agency In coordination with the General Services Administration and are issued under the authority of Chapter 145, Title 10, United States Code, and Section 487, Title 40, United States Code. The procedures for the maintenance of a uniform catalog system are contained in the Defense Integrated Data System (DIDS) Procedures Manual (DoD 4100.39-M). This policy manual implements DoD Directive 4130.2, >CH The Federal Catalog System.

The policies/instructions outlined in this manual are mandatory for use by all participants in the Federal Catalog System. The procedures contained in the DIDS Procedures Manual which implement policy contained herein are mandatory for use by all participants in the Federal Catalog System.

The Federal Manual for Supply Cataloging is cancelled and superseded by this manual. The DoD Instructions and manual listed in Page ii will be cancelled upon publication of this manual.

Recommendations for additions, deletions and corrections should be addressed to Director, Defense Logistics Agency, ATTENTION: DLA-SC Cameron Station, Alexandria, Virginia 22304-6100. >CH 4 XH 4
